

Day 11

Biological processes and molecular functions affected by higher rearing temperature throughout Pacific oyster larval development. Developmental time is denoted in upper left corner (settlement occurred on day 6). Nodes are colored by the relative total magnitude fold-change in abundance of all proteins associated with a given term between animals conditioned at 29°C and 23°C.